

Deborah Dougherty is a Professor of History and Political Science at Illinois Central College where she has taught American National Government, State and Local Government, American History, and Illinois History for 16 years. Prior to teaching at ICC, Ms. Dougherty taught at Lincoln Land Community College and Heartland Community College and was an instructor of Women's History and American History at Illinois State University for four years. Ms. Dougherty was also an Appropriations Analyst for the Illinois General Assembly and an Assistant Editor for the Illinois Legislative Studies Center at the University of Illinois, Springfield. Ms. Dougherty and her husband, Tom, recently purchased an 1894 Italianate-style home in the Moss-Bradley Neighborhood of Peoria.